Caution For Young Men.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie gives the following advice intended for young men, but which older men may heed to their advantage:

"There are three great rocks ahead of the practical young man who has his feet upon the ladder and is beginning to rise. First, drunkenness, which, of course, is fatal. There is no use of wasting time upon any young man who drinks liquor, no matter how exceptional his talent. Indeed, the greater his talents are, the greater the disappointment must be.

The second rock ahead is speculation. The business of a speculator and that of a manufacturer or man of affairs are not only distinct, but incompatible. To be successful in the business world, the manufacturer's and the merchant's profits only should be sought. The manufacturer should go forward steadily, meeting the market price. When there are goods to sell, sell them; when supplies are needed, purchase them, without regard to the market price in either case. I have never known a speculative manufacturer or business man who scored a permanent success. He is rich one day, bankrupt the next. Besides this the manufacturer aims to produce articles, and in so doing to employ labor. This furnishes a laudable career. A man in this avocation is useful to his kind. The merchant is usefully occupied in distributing commodities; the banker in providing capital.

The third rock is akin to speculation—endoring. Business men require irregular supplies of money, at some times little, at others enormous sums. Others being in the same condition, there is strong temptation to indorse mutually. This rock should be avoided. There are emergencies, no doubt, in which men should help their friends, but there is a rule that will keep one safe. No man should place his name upon the obligation of another if he has not sufficient to pay it without detriment to his own business. It is dishonest to do so. Men are trustees for those who have trusted them, and the creditor is entitled to all his capital and credit. For one's own firm, 'your name, your fortune, your sacred honor,' but for others, no matter under what circumstances, only such aid as you can render without damage to your trust. It is a safe rule, therefore, to give the cash direct that you have to spare for others, and never your endorsement or guarantee."

Some one has well remarked that the sharpest test of a man's character is in his treatment of what is in his power and wholly below him. Motives of self-interest are sufficiently strong and numerous to produce irreproachable conduct toward superiors or equals in strength or knowledge or station or wealth or intelligence. They have it in their power to defend themselves from our attacks, to bring us to account for our misdoings, to resist injuries, to reward benefits. Much of what renders our lives valuable is in their hands to bestow or to withhold. When, therefore, we so order our conduct as to conciliate and please those who can thus control our happiness and welfare, it may be a token of intelligence, but not necessarily of noble character. When, however, we come into relation with those who have no such power, who must accept without appeal what we choose to give them, who have no more substantial reward to bestow than gratitude or affection, and no severer penalty than secret and impotent wrath, we show something of our true selves by the way in which we treat them.

The rapid increase of the wealth, business and prosperity of the United States during the past ten years, says the Boston Manufacturers' Gazette, is simply marvelous. According to the published figures, the total wealth of the country is now $61,450,000,000, equal to nearly $1,000 per capita. This is an increase in 10 years of $18,000,000,000, or 42 per cent. England's wealth in 1885 was given at $50,000,000,000. The average of wealth per head in England is $1,545, in Scotland $1,215, in Ireland but $565. The total wealth of France is estimated at $30,000,000,000. England exacts in taxes $20 per head of population, while each individual in the United States pays but $12.50. America will produce 7,000,000 tons of iron this year, while England's greatest production is 8,600,000 tons.

We regret that hundreds of our subscribers, who owe from one to five years' subscription and some for a longer period, did not take advantage of our liberal offer made during the latter part of June for the month of July.—Cattlettsburg Democrat.

An editor who will send his paper five years and longer without getting anything for it must be a very rich or a very charitable man. If he don't go to Heaven, who will?—Jessamine Journal.

Easily answered. The business manager, who trots around and tries to collect five years' money for that five year's subscription.

Visitor—What is that which no man wants, no man has and no man can get rid of?
Small Boy—My sister Mary.

Salt Every Day.

Dairy cattle should have access to salt every day, and salt should be added to their stable feed. A series of experiments has convinced me that when cows are denied salt for a period of even one week they will yield from 14 to 17 per cent less milk, and that of an inferior quality. Such milk will on an average turn sour in 24 hours less time than milk drawn from the same or similar cows receiving salt, all other conditions of treatment being equal. Comfortable quarters are indispensable to the health and well-being of cows. Stables during the winter should have a temperature constantly within the range of 40 to 55 degrees Fahrenheit. In summer time a shade should be provided in the pasture fields or adjacent thereto to protect against the bristling influence of July and August suns. In all the management of cows such conditions should be provided and such care given as will insure excellent health and apparent contentment. When practicable milking should be done by the same person, with regularity as to time. He only that hath clean hands should be allowed to milk a cow. I say "he" because I think the men of the farm should do all the milking, at least during the winter months. I have exercised the right of changing my mind on that subject since I left the farm. It is no more difficult to milk with dry hands than with wet. It is certainly more cleanly, and leaves the milk in a much more desirable condition for table or manufacture. Pure stable atmosphere is indispensable to prevent contamination from that source. Immediate straining will remove impurities which otherwise might be dissolved, to the permanent injury of the whole product.—Orange Judd.

The big, pear-shaped diamond pendant which Anna O'Keefe wears dangling from her garter in the costume of the page in The Brigands has attracted considerable attention, says the Chicago Herald's New York letter. Some one in the audience the other night said: "Look at the chandelier pendant little Keefe is wearing." In reality it is a fine yellow diamond, which was one of the French crown jewels and of whose history the young singer is rather proud. It hangs from a long gold pin which is thrust through the garter, and at every movement of her pretty leg it shoots forth its golden light. She is also the possessor of a beautiful white sapphire and some fine opals, which she declares have brought her luck. In fact, she says that everything that brings ill luck to others means good fortune for her. Thus, Friday is her lucky day and 13 has no horror for her. She also dotes on seeing the moon over her left shoulder, and really enjoys breaking looking glasses. In one respect she is a remarkable young woman—she doesn't believe that she is the coming prima donna of the comic opera stage.

HOODED SEAL.—An interesting denizen of the ice-fields off the Greenland and Labrador coasts in the stemmatopus, or hooded seal. This is an ungainly beast, often larger than an ox. He lies in a great heap on the ice and is much the color of soot. On days when the sun is strong, as the spring advances, the oil fairly oozes out of his glistening skin. I have sometimes seen him lying so still, and bathed in his perspiration of oil, that I imagined him dead and "rendering" out in the heat. The seal hunters call him the "dog hood," because he has a huge hood or membrane consisting of blubber and a tough tissue several inches thick, which in the twinkling of an eye he can draw over his head. He is then safe from all ordinary assault, being shielded all over the body by several inches thick of blubber or fat, through which the heavy shot of the seal-hunters' guns cannot reach vital parts. The greenhorn delights to capture the pelt of a dog hood, but the experienced hunter is just as content to let the ugly brute alone.—Harper's Young People.

The African Problem.

The solution of the African problem is not yet. It is one thing to cast lots for African provinces, but quite another to realize them when cast. A deadly climate, dark jungles and vast deserts, to say nothing of the treacherous African himself, are all potential agents to bar the progress of greater forces perhaps than even England and Germany can employ. And then it is by no means certain that the German eagle and the British lion are to live peaceably together in Africa. Their interests are widely apart; and besides, the latter is not likely to forgive the German for presuming upon taking half of these stolen honors. The protectorate at Zanzibar may yet prove to have been a poor exchange for Heligoland; and even if the cession of the latter place does not cost the life of the Tory ministry, it is by no means impossible that it soon will provoke a peremptory summons from France to terminate the occupation of Egypt.—Harper's Weekly.

"Your account has been standing a long time, Mr. Dukey." "Then give it a seat, my dear Shears." "Very glad to sir; shall we make it a receipt?"—Harper's Bazar.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—To You.—We want what you owe us. We mean you. Chadwick & Edmiston.

—Sigler & Carson have opened up a furniture department adjoining their dry goods store.

—The cool weather of the past week has diminished to some extent the number of guests at the Springs. Chief Clerk D. B. Edmiston tells us, however, that there are about 275 there yet, and that the stream of gaiety is as flush as ever.

—The ladies of the Christian church have been repairing and refitting their house of worship, for which (as they did all themselves) they deserve unstinted praise. It is now indeed a "fit shrine for the pious worshiper to hold communion with his Maker."

—The public school opened Monday with 33 pupils in the advanced department and 32 in the primary. Miss Ida Pettus has temporary charge of the juveniles until Prof. Smith's daughter arrives from Ohio, who is expected next week and will assist her father during the entire term. The Academic department promises also to be well patronized.

—Mr. George W. Miller, who was born and reared here in Crab Orchard, but who went West 21 years ago and settled in the then sparsely populated parts of Western Kansas, has gotten to be a millionaire and is now acknowledged the greatest cattle shipper in the West. Mr. Miller married a sister of Mrs. S. A. Brooks, of this place, and has other connections in Lincoln who will be proud to hear of his great good fortune.

—Dr. and C. A. Redd, Sr., left for Middlesboro this week, where they go to superintend the sale of a fine tract of mineral land, lying contiguous to the "Magic City." The tract comprises about 310 acres, and they expect to realize something in the vicinity of $100 per acre. Mr. Redd says that 15 years ago he offered to take $700 for the whole business, but is very glad now that he had the good fortune not to dispose of it.

—Those who sat up Saturday night in the soft, voluptuous summer air, and listened to the dulcet notes of the cornet band, will no longer deny that the boys can make exquisite music. It was a rare display of our home-born talent, and the feeling as well as the unfeeling soul enjoyed it. Mr. Berney Fish, the leader of the band, tho' young, evinces a remarkable aptitude for music and is rapidly leading the band toward the standard of excellence.

—This is the way that the first stanza of Poe's celebrated poem of the "Raven" now read to a couple of young men here, who went calling on their lady loves a few nights since, and who lingered so long that the good house-wife had to admonish them that it was time for all honest fowls to be at roost:

Once upon a night delicious,
While we sat engaged in precious
Converse with the gentle damsels,
That our hearts do most adore;
While a smiling and a rooking,
With our tongues gleefully clogging,
Suddenly there came a knocking,
Knocking at the parlor door,
And a small voice shouted sharply,
"Bed-time boys! be gone, and Give the girls a little chance to snore."

—Mr. Curtis Gover desires to make some corrections as to the account of the racket between him and B. G. Gover, which appeared in your last issue and which seemed to be a one-sided statement. A year ago the two gentlemen had a disagreement about some business matters and as they were partners, B. G. Gover turned over the management of his part of the business to Jack Gover, his brother, and Jack and Curtis were to conduct the business independent of B. G. Gover. Wednesday B. G. Gover was here, and mentioned the fact to his brother Jack, that he was going to inspect the books. Jack advised him not to do it, as he had nothing to do with the business, and that bad feelings might be engendered thereby between him and Curtis. He consented, but went to the livery stable and asked Curtis how he traded for such and such a horse. Curtis replied that it was none of his business. One word led to another and Curtis seized a pitchfork and made at B. G. and gave him a blow with it. He was on the point of repeating it when Jack Gover rushed up and took hold of Curtis and endeavored to prevent further friction. 'Twas then that B. G. got out his penknife and used it on Curtis, making two slight skin wounds. The case was tried before a jury instead of the judge and Curtis was fined one cent and cost, the jury considering that B. G. Gover acted as if challenging a quarrel by speaking to Curtis, knowing the bad feelings existing between the two.

—Miss Maggie Martin, of Lancaster, was the guest of Miss Nellie Yantis this week. Mr. Tim W. Higgins, of Louisville, is spending a few days at C. O. Springs. Miss Ella Watson, Lancaster's fair postmistress, accompanied by Mr. Brown was in town this week visiting acquaintances. Miss Birdie Stevens left Saturday for Cincinnati, where she goes to attend the Conservatory of Music. Miss Nannie Kennedy is with her sister, Mrs. M. C. Williams, at Mt. Vernon. Mrs. Mamie Frye, of Hustonville, and Miss Maggie McKinney, of McKinney, have returned home after a pleasant visit to the Misses Stuart. The pretty and accomplished Miss Ida Adams, of Mt. Vernon, has been the guest of Mrs. Dr. J. S. Cooper this week. Miss Adams is a sister of the noted temperance lecturer, Mrs. Lula Nield, and in addition to this attraction is said to be a conversationalist of rare ability. She is regarded as the reigning belle of Rockcastle. Miss Bettie Higgins is in Somerset, visiting the family of her brother, and a certain gay gallant is complaining of tiredness of life. Miss Fannie Crawford has returned to her home in Rockcastle, delighted with her visit to Crab Orchard. Mr. James R. Lawless, of Lexington, is here, mingling with his former townsmen. He is as great a comedian as ever—in fact his wit has received some additional salt from his sojourn in the blue grass capital. Mr. Charley Shumate and wife, of Rowland, drove up Sunday and spent the day with Miss Mary Albright and took her pretty little sister, Miss Dessie, back with them for a week's visit. Miss Mary Bronaugh, of Nicholasville, is visiting at R. H. Bronaugh's. Mrs. Dr. W. M. Doores and little Miss Lola Holdam have returned from a week's visit to Mrs. Charley Speigel, of Vincennes, Ind. Misses Sabra and Lala Hays are the guests of their aunt, Mrs. Catherine McAlister, Capt. J. R. Ward and wife, of Rural Retreat, Va., who were visiting the family of C. A. Redd, Jr., last week, has returned home. Mrs. Denny, of Somerset, is the guest of Mrs. Agnes Heron. Dr. C. A. Cox, of Stanford, was here this week. Col. Faulkner, of Richmond, one of the most prominent republicans in the State, passed through town Saturday. Mrs. Dr. Lasley, of McKinney, is the guest of Mrs. W. T. Stephenson. Mr. Charley Curtis and Miss Mary, are back from a visit to relatives at Somerset.

A notable horse race took place at Saranac, Mich. It was gotten up by Parson Arney, of the Methodist church, to raise money for religious purposes. There was a great gathering at the driving park and when the parson drove in with his noted mare he was greeted with applause. All the booths sold things for the benefit of the church. The pastor addressed the people, saying the meeting was called in the interest of purer races, better stock and the upbuilding of the religious community. Then the trotting and running events came off amid the enthusiastic plaudits of the throng. Two of Parson Arney's horses won.

WASHINGTON CO. STOCK & GRAIN FARM

AT PRIVATE SALE.
To close a partnership we offer at private sale our Farm of Nearly Five Hundred Acres.

Near Mooresville, Washington county.
This Farm is situated on the turnpike leading from Mooresville to Chaplin and is about 10 miles from Springfield, 7 miles from Bloomfield, 5 miles from Valley Hill, a depot on the railroad between Bardonia and Springfield, and about an hour's run from Louisville. There is on the Farm a good comfortable house of 4 rooms, the main building a brick, having a porch and a large porch, and necessary farm buildings, consisting of stables, corn cribs, granary, smoke house, buggy house, poultry house and yard and two large tobacco barns. A good portion of this land is in blue grass, timothy and clover and has a beautiful supply of never-failing water, well distributed in the different pastures and fields; and the whole is in a good state of cultivation. In short, it is a highly productive Farm, which the crops of grasses, grain and tobacco grown on it yearly attest. It is an incontrovertible fact that Washington county lands have been selling 25 to 50 per cent. cheaper than lands of a like character in any other part of the State, and this has undoubtedly been due to the fact that the county has been without railroads, until the past two years. No county in the State raises finer horses, cattle, blue-grass, corn and tobacco. Our sole reason for offering to sell this farm is to close our partnership, and to a man wanting good land, well located, at a low price and on good terms, we will sell the cheapest in Kentucky. No use to go West, and you'll say so, when you see this land. To parties who might want this land we will say that it is susceptible of being sold at a low price, and we will say on us on the place or address us at Mooresville, Ky. (44-65) A. C. & JOHN TAYLOR.

—St. Mary's College is again to be opened. An agreement has been reached between Bishop McCloskey and the priests.

—Claude Reed shot and killed John Tapp, another negro, in his yard at Henderson. A woman was the cause of the trouble.

—The followers of Schweinfurth have attributed the paternity of the child recently born in his "Heaven" to the Holy Ghost.

—The wife and mother of Otto Schwind quarreled over the possession of his body when the wife made an effort to detach the corpse.

—Roadmaster Rowland and Baggage-Master Frank Smith, who were hurt in the Short Line wreck, near Spring Station, have since died of their injuries.

—Robert Bullock, the Congressman just unseated from the 2d Florida district, has been renominated by acclamation by a democratic convention of that district.

—Near Booneville, Owsley county, John Bowman knocked his cousin, Henry Bowman, down, after which his sister Topsy, cut his heart out with a Bowie. The girl claimed that Henry insulted her.

—"Tired because my mother's tongue speaks no kind word to me." This was the reason given by Henry, the 14-year-old son of Mary Carter, who made two unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide at Columbus, Ind.

—John J. Kirkland, a prominent citizen of Crestline, Ohio, was found dead in a creek near his home. A slight confusion of the skull was the only mark of violence that could be found, but it is believed that he was foully dealt with.

—Mary L. Weldon, of Schweinfurth's "Heaven," has given birth to a girl baby. The "Heaven" is located at Rockford, Ill., and the indignant citizens of that place are perfecting plans to rid themselves of both the "Heaven" and Schweinfurth.

—The national association of letter carriers, in session at Boston, indorsed the movement for a monument to the late S. S. Cox, "the champion of the free delivery system and its employees." The fund on hand now amounts to $2,723 and $10,000 is needed.

—The census bureau has practically computed the total population of the United States. With 1,200 enumeration districts not yet reported, the figures at hand show a population of 62,965,955. Superintendent Porter estimates the population of the country at 64,000,000.

—At Buffalo the switchmen were ordered by Grand Master Sweeney to quit work, which has caused a freight blockade of the Central and West Shore roads. At West Albany the strikers and the Pinkerton guards had a fight in which there was a reckless use of fire-arms. No one was killed.

—A Winchester special says that Lida Redmon, aged 21, was shot through the temple and fatally wounded while asleep in bed. It is thought that the shooting was done by John Moore, with whom she had been intimate, and with whom she had trouble recently. Moore is a bad man and lately shot his wife.

—The fire which consumed the ware house and plant of the Kentucky Distilling Co., and the pork-house of Conrad & Seiler was the most destructive from a financial point of view that Louisville has suffered since the war. Over 1,000,000 gallons of whisky were burned—enough to give every inhabitant of the United States a good drink. The loss on this, including the taxes due the government, is estimated at $1,624,256.65. The loss on the distillery plant and warehouse is placed at $200,000; and on the pork-house at $125,000. A small loss was sustained by the Kentucky Tannery, making the aggregate damage nearly two million dollars. The buildings were well insured, but the policies on the whisky cover about 1/4 its value.

—Jack Chinn, the fighting turfman, has been using his knife again. He and George McCabe, a Jessamine sport, had hot words during a round of drinks in a Nicholasville saloon, when McCabe began a tirade of abuse on Chinn. The latter promptly knocked him down. Friends separated them and they were kept apart for several hours. They again met in a saloon and McCabe advanced toward the turfman cursing him, with his hand in his hip pocket. Quick as a flash Chinn's big Bowie came from his pocket, and, before the other man could move, Chinn had aimed a slash at his jugular. He missed the latter, however, and the blade plunged into McCabe's left cheek, laying his face open and making a wound that soon flooded McCabe from loss of blood.

LOGAN'S CREEK.—Porter Robinson has returned from Lexington. J. W. Smith sold last week a bunch of hogs to W. H. Taylor at 31. C. M. Spoonamore sold a nice bunch of ewes to his brother Elijah at $3.75 per head. We are glad to note that our enterprising farmer, Mr. E. B. Amon, John and Alex Traylor, E. B. and J. M. Beazley, B. W. Gaines, Alex Robinson and Lewis Dudderar, killed their first beef at Dudderar's slaughterpen. Friday. Weakley, who is quite low with consumption, and writes that death is expected any moment. Miss Alice Stuart, of Crab Orchard, has been visiting friends in our neighborhood. She taught school for several years along the creek. Miss Alice is an excellent teacher and we feel assured you Stanford people will be pleased with her. Elder J. Q. A dispatch from Marion to a Boston paper says that Ex-President Cleveland by reason of his activity as a sailor and a fisherman is actually losing flesh. The grand-father's hat now reaches down to the fourth button of his vest.—N. Y. World.

THE friends of Mr. Thomas McRoberts have been alarmed at the serious nature of sickness with which he is now suffering. Owing to a long exemption from sickness in any form, Mr. McRoberts no doubt feels the confinement sharply. The colored camp meeting is still in progress and will likely continue through the week. A great deal of preaching is being done and large crowds attend the meetings.

BARBOURVILLE has a brass band of 13 members and their ages run from 8 to 13. If the younger the player the less noise he makes, we congratulate the booming capital of Knox.

THE INTERIOR JOURNALS will play the Crab Orchard base ball club on their grounds here this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Crab Orchard team has a fine battery and if our namesakes beat them they will have to get up and hustle.

CHICKEN THIEVES are ridding the town of that member of the feathered tribe and if the business continues they will be as scarce as the chewing propensities of a hen. Mrs. Dr. J. B. Owens has lost 50 in the last week, while Mrs. A. C. Sine and Mrs. Dr. Hugh Reid have had their coops relieved of a large number.

ADVERTISING PAYS.—Mrs. Kate Dudderar stated through these columns that she desired to rent her home on Lancaster street and before a second insertion of the notice, the house was rented and the trade closed. Mrs. E. G. Coffey, who for years was one of the proprietors of the Exchange Hotel at Liberty, has it now and will continue it as a boarding-house. Those who have stopped with Mrs. Coffey at Liberty will gladly testify as to her ability as a hostess.

The biggest ball of the season at Crab Orchard Springs was that of Friday evening when every available spot in the ball-room was filled with the merry dancers and the windows and doors were crowded with spectators. A new orchestra leader has improved the already good music and with the highly waxed floors, a more delightful place to enjoy that pleasure could not be found. A delegation from this place, numbering some 15 couples, attended and as usual had a delightful time.

HAPPY AGAIN.—Old Uncle Billy Caldwell, the colored man who was swindled out of his horse in a trade with the Gypsies, swore out a warrant against them for misrepresentation. The warrant was put in Mr. S. M. Owens' hands and on Thursday he went to Somerset and served it on the man who made the trade. The Gypsy suggested a compromise of the horse he had swapped the old darkey's for, but Mr. Owens would not consent. Finally it was agreed between them that the horse and $50 be given, which pays Uncle Billy pretty well, besides teaching him a lesson which may hereafter be of benefit to him. It was reported among the colored population that his wife had left him, because he had lost his horse, and that too will no doubt be amicably settled now.

MARTHA KENNEDY, a colored demimonde, played in bad luck Thursday night. Early after dark a Lancaster negro named Humble hit her in the face and nearly knocked her down and later on Andy Yates gave her a whipping. She made complaint before Judge Carson Friday and the ungallant negroes were fined $5 and $10 respectively, before that tribunal. Still later on Charlie Armstrong, who has a tender place in his heart, heard of the trouble and sought Humble with the intention of doing him up. They met and Armstrong drew a gun on the Lancaster coon and made him beg for his life. He also came before Judge Carson and had Armstrong fined $5. As none of these fines were paid, the prospects for clean streets for the next few weeks are extremely good.

TOBE FARMER, who has been working in Madison, suffered a stroke of paralysis a few days ago and was brought here Tuesday in a helpless condition. Nearly all of his right side is paralyzed and the doctors think the prospect of his gaining use of his limb is very slim.

A TWO-HORSE wagon and team started down Main street yesterday morning and were getting under good headway when they were halted. They had gone far enough, however, to run into a buggy occupied by Miss Annie Alcorn and Mr. Wheatley and demolish one of the wheels of their buggy.

SATURDAY'S Louisville Times contains a tolerably fair cut of Hon. William Berkeley, who will represent Garrard in the constitutional convention. The correspondent of that paper here has been requested to procure the picture and biography of our delegate, Mr. W. H. Miller, which will appear in a few days.

HAVING bought out the stock of millinery of Mrs. Kate Dudderar, I will continue the business at her old stand. I ask a share of the public patronage and pledge that it shall be my intention to please all with fair dealing. About September 1st I will receive a large line of fall millinery, which I invite the ladies of Stanford and vicinity to call and examine. Mrs. M. F. Elkin.

DECIDEDLY one of the most brilliant entertainments Stanford has ever had, was given by the Misses Alcorn on Thursday evening last. A hundred or more invitations were sent out and not more than a half dozen "regrets" were received. The young people knew that a treat was in store for them and even if they had so desired they could not afford to miss so elegant an entertainment held at so hospitable a home as it is the pleasure of the Misses Alcorn to possess. The party was simply grand and too much can not be said either of the splendid way it was conducted or of the delightful young ladies to whom the society people of this section owe lives of gratitude. In the first place the young ladies had as their guests representative belles of Georgia, West Virginia and Kentucky, in Miss Wheatley, from the first named, Miss Faulkner, from the second and Misses Bohon, Forsythe and Pearson of the last. Secondly there was everything that heart could wish to make the occasion enjoyable, and thirdly the beauty in and around Stanford was there. Considering all these what manner of man would he be who could or would not make this charming event an oasis in his life? Surely he would be an unfit subject to deserve recognition on such swell occasions. At 9 o'clock the guests began to arrive and all filed up stairs to the apartments for ladies and those for gentlemen and after a few minutes stay, were ready to meet the Misses Alcorn's friends. Judge Alcorn did the introducing in his characteristically graceful manner, after which the guests passed out to other parlors where they were charmingly cared for by the Misses Alcorn and Mr. W. B. McKinney. Just a little after 11 Mrs. Alcorn announced that lunch was ready and the hundred or more happy young people were invited out to the sumptuous repast, that no one, better than Mrs. Alcorn, knows how to preside over. Gilcher, of Danville, prepared the lunch, which to say was elegant, would teebly express it. After all had freely partaken of the good things, the parlors, halls and verandahs were again sought and it was past 2 before a thought of departing had entered a mind. The sad farewells then began and it was like a final parting to say good bye to the people who had done so much for their pleasure and the place where joy and merriment had continued from the arrival of the first guests.

A BARGAIN.—Two superior wheat drill at cost. I. M. Bruce.

MANAGER COOK tells us that he is making vast preparations for his picnic on the 22d and that he expects a big day of it. The base ball game, which is one of the drawing cards, will certainly come off and a good game is expected.

THE teacher's institute convened yesterday morning and about 30 teachers were present. Prof. J. T. Gaines, of Louisville, was selected by Miss Bogle as conductor, and Miss Cettie Thnrmound was made secretary. Misses Stuart, of Crab Orchard, Kay, of Hustonville, and Mr. Allen, of McKinney, were chosen as the committee to arrange the programme. The institute will be in session till Friday.

A SPECIAL to the Courier-Journal from Corbin says a difficulty between Wm. Mitchell and his brother on one side and J. K. Petry, an L. & N. brakeman, on the other, occurred there Sunday, resulting in the shooting of Mitchell in the abdomen. The older brother and Petry had quarreled before and when they met a few words passed, when both began shooting. Some 15 shots were fired. The younger Mitchell is only 11 years old, but stood by his brother and emptied his revolver at Petry.

THE FARMER'S AND STOCKMAN'S FAITHFUL FRIEND.

A Dog That Is Not a Mean, Treacherous, Sheep Killing Cur—Sagacity and Fidelity of the Scotch Collie or Shepherd Dog—His Points.

A good dog, not a mean, treacherous, sheep killing cur, but an intelligent, spirited animal, at once kind and watchful, is very useful to the farmer. "Get the best," which is the Scotch collie or shepherd dog. A good specimen is shown in the illustration.

This animal has almost human intelligence. The genuine collie is very broad between the eyes, and black, black and white, or black, white and tan. There is always a foxy look to the sharp muzzle. He is rather a short, "chuffy" dog, not quite two feet high, strongly built for his size, and a good runner. These animals in Scotland and in the western region of our own country have been so perfectly trained that one of them will take a herd of sheep or cattle out to the pasture, guard it all day, and bring it home safe at nightfall. Mr. Crozier tells us that one of his old collies was accustomed, week after week, every evening, to go to the sheep pasture, half a mile away, and bring the flock home at 5 o'clock, never varying from this time fifteen minutes. The same dog kept a cow and her lamb apart in a five acre lot from morning till night, without injury to either.

The collie's tail droops in all cases below the line of his back and is long and bushy. There are two breeds, the rough haired and smooth haired. The rough haired collie is sometimes fox colored. All of the collies have the extra claw on the hind leg. The rough haired is the family especially favored by cattle breeders. This is the kind shown in our illustration. An untrained collie pup can be bought for about $10, but the full grown, trained dogs are worth from $50 to $100.

These dogs are fond of children and of cattle. In driving a herd of cows they do not attack them boldly, but merely nip their heels and jump away before they are kicked. In taking care of sheep or cattle one trained collie is worth half a dozen ordinary boys, and does not begin to cost so much to keep as one boy. The female collies are invaluable on account of their fidelity and sagacity.

The Right Breed of Horses.

James Turner writes in The Rural New Yorker:

"My own experience has been that each one of the improved breeds of horses is best in certain places. You will find that the breeders of each distinct class are liable to claim for them that they and they alone are the best horses for the farmers and stock growers to breed. This claim, however, is too broad and entirely untenable. In the right place the Clydesdale is best; in another the Percheron, and in another special class of work the American trotting horse, and so on down through the list of the various improved breeds.

"I would advise a breeder, if he desires to produce roadsters, to cross on the common mares in his district a standard bred trotting horse, as I believe for this purpose no animal will take the place and have the endurance and staying qualities of the standard bred trotter. If the object of breeding is to bring up a class of horses for general purposes on the farm I would advise crossing on the common mares of the country a pure bred Clydesdale stallion. This cross should produce an all work horse, weighing about 1,400 to 1,450 pounds at maturity, having a good, broad, flat leg, good feet, kind disposition, an animal well adapted to plowing, drawing loads to town, or trotting back home with the empty wagon.

"My impressions are that to breed a registered Percheron stallion on the common mares of the country would produce a grade better adapted for farm work than for heavy draft work on the pavements in a city. Crossing any of the improved draft breeds, namely—Clydesdales, English Shire, Suffolk Punch, Belgian or Percheron stallions, on the common mares of the country will produce an improved class of horses for heavy team work. Being myself a breeder of Clydesdales I should naturally be inclined to prefer Clydes for such crossing, but at the same time I will be fair enough to admit that in certain places and for certain purposes some of the others enumerated will give good satisfaction.

"If horses are wanted for carriage or roadster work my experience leads me to believe that there is nothing produced on earth equal, in the many qualifications required, to the American trotting horse. If properly broken he is always cheerful, fearless and possesses the necessary qualities for the work he may be called upon to do. I do not believe that there was ever a class of horses, cattle, sheep or swine bred that can be safely called the best. Each of the improved breeds is, in my judgment, best in certain places."

The Cattle Market.

The Cincinnati Price Current has interviewed commission merchants in the leading markets of the west as to their opinion concerning the early future of the cattle trade. Fifteen firms reply, their judgment amounting to about this: They expect the season's run of cattle to be fully as heavy as a year ago, and probably a little heavier. They find desirable cattle relatively a little scarce. Firm prices and possible improvement are among the things looked for. The average tone of expression is cheerful, with a tendency to confidence.

A Story of The War.

"It was the closing day at Fredericksburg," says Gen. Kershaw, "when a man by the name of John Kirkland came rushing into headquarters and said: 'General I can't stand it any longer.' Referring to the wounded Federals lying in front of our breast works, he said: 'Those poor fellows yonder are crying for water—and I came to ask your permission to go out there and carry them some.'"

Said I, 'Kirkland, you know it would be almost certain death.'

'Yes, said he, 'but I will risk it for humanity's sake.'

'I don't think I ought to give you permission to go,' said I, 'but I was so struck with his heroism that I let him go. He gathered some canteens, filled them with water and went over the breastworks. He got a few steps and came running back. I thought his courage had failed him, but he came to me and asked if he might put up a white handkerchief. Said I, 'No Kirkland, we don't propose to use any flag of truce on this occasion.'

He got his canteens and went over the breastworks again and went about from man to man giving the wounded water. At first the enemy fired at him, but as soon as they saw his purpose of course they stopped, and he remained out there until he had given water to every one of those poor fellows."—Atlanta Constitution.

"You are fined $10," cried the fair girl, as the old gentleman poked his head into the room where she was entertaining her best beau. "What for?" inquired pater. "Contempt of court, of course,"—N. Y. Herald.

Some Pretty Tall Cotton.

Col. Anie Gatewood, of Americus, was telling a number of friends the other day about his magnificent cotton crop and during the conversation related the following startling story. His cotton is so thick and tall that the sun's rays cannot penetrate between the rows, and consequently it is very dark in the fields even at midday. Last week a 12-year-old boy, a son of one of his tenants, went to the field to carry his father's breakfast, and missed his way in the dense cotton. The tenant, becoming alarmed at the non-appearance of the boy at the regular time, went to the house and secured help to institute a search, as he well knew that the boy would never find his way out of the cotton field unaided.

Men mounted on mules, in order that they could see about them, rode for hours through the dense, dark field of cotton, firing guns and calling loudly to attract the attention of the lost boy, while skyrockets and Roman candles were fired at intervals into the cotton in the hope that he might see the light and make his presence known. Finally, after many weary hours had been spent in searching for the boy, he was found fast asleep in the forks of a cotton stalk some five feet above the ground. The hunters carried him home in triumph, and to prevent a recurrence of the affair Mr. Gatewood is having tall signal poles with red flags attached put up in his fields.—Americus (Ga.) Times.

Nature's Balm to Land Lubbers.

There is a spring in Tallahassee county in this state which furnishes water which it is said will cure nausea in almost every instance. The owners of the spring have an idea that it will cure seasickness. They have had it tried on the steamships of the Boston line of the New England Steamship company, and are satisfied with the test. They have tried it also on the New York line of the Ocean Steamship company. On the trip of the Kansas City the water was administered to those who were seasick by Dr. Greene, who represented the owners of the spring. When the Kansas City reached Savannah the doctor said he was gratified with the result of his experiments. There were ten passengers seasick on the trip to New York and three on the return trip. The water cured them all. One of those cured was the Hon. William Clifton. He is a regular land lubber.—Savannah News.

Buying Almanacs.

A woman went into one of our local book stores the other day and asked for Thomas' almanac. The dealer informed her that there was so little call for this almanac that he did not keep it in stock. He said, furthermore, with much courtesy, that he had one in the store which he had ordered for another customer and that he would let her have it. "Well, perhaps I'll take it," said the woman. "How much do you want for it?" The storekeeper replied that ten cents was the price, whereupon the customer turned away and went out, remarking that she wouldn't give more than five cents as the season was half over and the book wasn't worth more than half price.—Lewiston Journal.

A Lasting Substitute for Ice.

Col. Jim Thompson, the news king, tired of furnishing ice water to the army of friends who make his depot their headquarters, slipped down to Hemingway's one morning, and securing a large chunk of clear glass slipped back to the store and slid it down into the cooler. A shake of the cooler proves there is something in there and the thirsty individual never questions but that it's the real stuff, and the next individual who may take a peep into the cooler sees what he supposes a clear, tempting square of ice, but it has not had time to cool the water. Thompson warrants it to last ten years.—Cincinnati Times-Democrat.
